WE held our annual meeting on the 1st of November, and plan by the light of the moon while the people slept.

At first we did not succeed, but we were bold and toiled on.

And when we had undergone much perplexity of mind and agony of spirit, until we sweat, as it were, great drops of blood, we learned more of the ways that are shrewd and cunning.

We ensnared them and succeeded in thrusting our hands deep down in their pockets ere they knew what we were doing.

And you see the outcome, this magi cificient structure.

And behold now all men do flock unto us and we have become strong.

And we have got to ourselves a great name, and now our sons and daughters can be educated and become great men and women, and governors and govern esses, and rulers and rulresses like us, and are, and get to themselves a great name
as we have done.

Then they said to the strangers that had assembled from the neighboring tribes and country round about,

Bring in your sons and daughters and have them educated. It shall not cost thee a shekel.

The Gentiles shall pay every farthing.

They opposed us in this great work and henceforth they shall become a hissing and a by-word throughout the land and shall be called Old Fugitives.

Again they said, Forty years, ye twice forty, have we groveled in this wilderness of ignorance and supersti tion.

Since the day of Barry we have had no one to educate our children.

And they were coming up after the manner of the heathen, and our neigh bor tribes were far in advance of us.

But now we have this tabernacle and we have here a man to instruct them, a second Moses, who will lead them out of this wilderness to a land of light and knowledge.

And they turned their sons and their daughters over to Wayland and his guides, and he divided them into de partments.

And placed a guide over each and when he had found a man servant to build camp-fires and ring the big bell every hour that the people might know the course of their travels.

He commanded the bell to ring, and with heads erect and colors flying they all marched off singing. We are bound for the land of Canaan.

Whether or not they will ever reach that fair and happy land the Lord only knoweth.

CHAPTER IX.

And the elect brethren congregated in the big hall to rejoice and some one said, Behold, my brethren did I not see some of the descendants of the Gentiles marching with our children.

is the bane of nearly every American disorders that so surely undermine the health and strength. Every woman owes it to herself and to her family to use that celebrated medicine, Kidney form. Equally efficient in either form.

THE FIRST BOOK OF CHRONICLES.

CHAPTER VII.

AND it came to pass after many days there came a man from one of the cities of the South which was by the riverside.

His name was Wayland and he had great renown as a scholar and a gov ernor.

And he said unto them, Give me three thousand shekels a year and I will reign over thy sons and daughters in the tabernacle.

And after much parleying they agreed with Wayland for the three thousand shekels.

CHAPTER VIII.

And it came to pass when the taber nacle was fully completed that they ap pointed the third day of the ninth month to congregate therein.

Early on the appointed morning, while the sun was yet low, all the chosen of Balaam, and all their sons and daughters, and all the strangers within the city, arose and clad them selves and prepared for the feast.

And they brought out their horses and chariots and their instruments of music.

And when they had mounted their brass band upon a chariot they all fell into line and marched off to the taber nacle.

And they blew their brass horns and played upon their harps and timbrels and base drums.

THE HERALD.

JNO. P. BARRETT, EDITOR
CICERO T. SUTTON, ASSOCIATE EDITOR

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 30, 1881

To Our Patrons.

This is the last issue of the HERALD that will appear under the present management.

One-half interest in the office, fixtures, presses, type, furniture, subscription list, accounts, &c., (to include all interest of Lycurgus Barrett) have been transferred to Cicero T. Sutton, and the HERALD will hereafter be conducted by John P. Barrett and said Cicero T. Sutton, under the firm name of Barrett & Sutton.

We have made the HERALD as newsy and interesting as we could under the circumstances, and trust that with the superior facilities at their command our successors will make it a still more welcome weekly visitor to the home of its patrons. We thank our patrons for their support and ask a continuation of the same to our successors.

Very truly,
BARRETT & SUTTON

F. A. SMITH, of Munfordville, wrote a postal card to another fellow, giving him a round cursing, and now the law wants $500 for a violation of postal rules and regulations.

A very large proportion of the people in the world profess about four times as much as they believe, believe about four times as much as they can prove and can prove two or three times as much as the world at large has any use for.

HON. W. C. OWENS, of Scott county, was elected Speaker of the Kentucky House of Representatives last Monday on the sixth ballot when he received thirty-eight votes to thirty-five cast for Hon. Clarence U. McElroy, of Warren county.

GUTEAU has the insanity dodge down to a point upon which he deserves a p.c.v. — Braving Green Gazette.

Would that he had a patent on it so that no other friend could practice it and that his patent would expire in time for the hanging to occur next April.

A MORNING Democratic paper is to be started in Cincinnati in opposition to the Enquirer. Ex-Lieutenant Governor Jno. C. Underwood, of this State, will be managing editor. The new paper will start, if it starts at all, with a cash capital of $500,000, but it will find the Enquirer rather hard to buck against.

The action of many of the members of the Legislature in refusing free railroad tickets to Frankfort is commendable and shows that the members do not wish to be placed under the slightest obligation to the companies. We hope they will act in some good work on the railroads this winter.

DEMOCRATS of the county should not forget the County Convention next Monday. Every Democrat feeling an interest in his party and his party's success should attend and aid in selecting the best men for delegates and endeavor to select the best, most efficient man for the position of Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

The Guteau trial still continues at Washington. The testimony as to his insanity will hardly be sufficient to establish that fact, and every prospect now points to a speedy swiftness of the trial. His own brother testified Monday and stated that he had always regarded him as responsible and still did so. Guteau at once grew furious and declared that his brother was an enemy. There is no knowing when the trial will end.

W. J. SMITH was sentenced ten days ago to be hanged in Monroe county on February 17th, 1882, for the murder of James O. Peeler. The Glasgow Times says that this is the first time for a long time that Monroe county has been treated to such a sensation. Two to one that Gov. Blackburn pardons him, although the murder was a most atrocious one and guilt was clearly proven.

The Republican papers are still jubilant over the Virginia Democratic defeat and say that the Solid South is broken up. A facetious exchange says that while it is true that it is broken, the crack has to be stuffed with money to keep it open and that such stuff is expensive even though it is carried on in this case by the United States government.

BLAINE is soon to retire from Arthur's Cabinet, and in doing so, will retire, for the time at least, to private life. His constituents have urged him to become a candidate for re-election to the Senate or to offer for Representative or Governor, but he steadfastly refuses. He was talked of as Minister to England, but he emphatically states that he will accept nothing. He is arranging his hosts for 1884, when he hopes to receive the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

THE Democratic caucus of the Kentucky Legislature met Monday night and nominated Hon. Ed. Turner, of Madison county, as Clerk; Col. E. Polk Johnson, of Louisville, Assistant Clerk; Wm. Italy, of Woodford, Sergeant-at-Arms, and Robert Tyler, of Bullitt, Doorkeeper. The vote between the old Clerk, Hon. T. G. Poore, and Mr. Turner was very close. There were nine names for Doorkeeper. Capt. T. D. Marean² received a very flattering vote. The Senate nominated W. V. Prather for Chief Clerk, Jack Sned for Assistant Clerk, Capt. Dan Glanton for Sergeant-at-Arms and Frye Lawrence for Doorkeeper.

BURGLARS are "doing" Greenville. On Wednesday night of last week they entered the store of M. Rowe, Stokes' saloon, and Martin's confectionery. The quantity of booty obtained was quite small. The Echo states that burglary in Greenville is a rare crime.

The farmers of this county have acted wisely this fall for once in their lives by gathering their corn early. Many of them usually leave their corn late and lose a large per cent. of it by wastage, but as the crop was light they could not afford to lose any of it and the larger part is now safe in the crib. Ohio county made enough corn to do but none to spare of the new crop.

CHAS. C. LASHEROOKS, of Daviess county, traveling for the Falls City Tobacco Warehouse, Louisville, was arrested at Birk City, Daviess county, about ten days since for passing counterfeit money. He had, up to the time of his arrest, borne an excellent character, but since that time several stories have been told of his crookedness. He waived an examining trial and in default of bail was sent to jail to await the trial of the grand jury.

The Danville Tribune says that if President Arthur will give Hon. W. T. Bradley a place in his Cabinet, Arthur can have the electoral vote of Kentucky in 1884 on a silver salver. A mistake. There is no power in heaven or among men whereby such a deplorable state of things could be brought about. And further, a man is disloyal to the true feelings of political manhood, as well as to the grand old Commonwealth of Kentucky to say that her suffrage could be bought by the pitiful amount of patronage at the disposal of one office-holder, be he a Cabinet officer or what not. Political honesty exists in Kentucky, even if it does not anywhere else.

Two weeks ago we gave publicity to a card from James Hocker, which we understood was only a statement of his connection with the stopping of Sam Taylor on the highway. Thinking this was all, we gave it to the printers to set up without reading, and never knew that it contained a personal attack on Mr. Taylor until it appeared in the paper, else we would not have inserted it. We regret that it occurred, but as it did we could not in justice deny Mr. Taylor an answer when demanded. A card from him appears this week. This will be an end of it so far as this paper is concerned. We endeavor to keep on all personal wrangles, and eliminating and reprimanding one another and hope our readers will pardon us for this and we will scrutinize personal cards a little closer hereafter.

The Louisville Democrat says that in a hurley-burley campaign the radicals can always beat us and that we require more time in the canvass than we usually take. We don't agree. We started off well enough in the race in 1880, but got out of wind before the election. — Braving Green Gazette.

Mr. Walker's long experience and thorough knowledge of men and things eminently fit him for the position of Representative, and if the people of the district are desirous of subserving their own interest, the best way to do so is to tender Hon. E. Dudley Walker the nomination in the coming Congressional convention. He would lead the party to a glorious victory at the polls. He has always been known as a leader in the party, and one of its most able leaders at that. Fearless and uncompromising he inspires respect in the minds of friends and foes alike, and while battling for the interest of his party or his client he is not domineering but is able, just and courteous, and always willing to concede as much as is in fairness demanded of him, but woe to error and political corruption when the flood gates of his eloquence are thrown open and the tide rushes out, carrying conviction deep and earnest with it and bursting along and sweeping all opposition before it.

Mr. Walker's long experience and thorough knowledge of men and things eminently fit him for the position of Representative, and if the people of the district are desirous of subserving their own interest, the best way to do so is to tender Hon. E. Dudley Walker the nomination in the coming Congressional convention. He would lead the party to a glorious victory at the polls. He has all the qualities necessary to make a good public servant in a responsible position, such as perseverance, fidelity to the interests of others when placed in his care, good judgment, an excellent knowledge of political economy and of the needs of the country and particularly of the State and this section of the State in the matter of legislation, and should he be successful would make a Representative of whom the nation and especially this district, would have cause to be proud.

to do so. A C. O. D. system would add very little, if anything, to the expenditures of the postoffice department, and even if the people would be glad to defray the extra expense in order to receive the benefits accruing from such a system. A cheaper and more extensive money-order system is something the public interest also demands. The limit should be increased from $50 to $100, and the fees reduced from ten to five cents, and so on in proportion. The greatest amount of service at the least possible cost is what is needed, and the larger part is now safe in the crib. Ohio county made enough corn to do but none to spare of the new crop.

THE present Legislature is called upon to consider several questions prominent among which is the concealed weapons law of the State. That the law, as it present exists, fails to meet the ends for which it was enacted no one, of course, will deny, although many persons believe that the law would serve as an effectual bar to the practice. Pistols are as frequently carried now as at any time before the law was passed, and at the time of his arrest, bore an excellent character, but since that time several stories have been told of his crookedness. He waived an examining trial and in default of bail was sent to jail to await the trial of the grand jury.

Congressional Gossip.

Capt. Sam E. Hill, of Hartford, spent Sunday in the city, and when interviewed denied that he had any intention of making the race for Congress, giving as his reason that his business affairs would not admit of it. Capt. Hill was not averse to saying, however, that he thought he could enjoy the emoluments of the office about as thoroughly as anybody, but at present he has no idea of entering politics. No better man lives in the district, and his ability is remarked upon wherever he is known.

Should he ever conclude to make the race for Congress he would have a strong following.

Upon further inquiry, we learned from Capt. Hill that his fellow-towners, Hon. E. D. Walker, would certainly make the race, and run from "end to end." Mr. Walker is one of the oldest members of the Hartford bar, and has the reputation of being one of the ablest and most ingenious and indefatigable murder lawyers in the Green River section. Whenever he has been, he has the reputation of a war-horse of Democracy, and if he enters into an active caucus, as he doubtless will, he will make it interesting for his opponents.

Capt. Hill is a young man than who, as the M. & E. says, there is no better in the district, and it is true that his ability is remarked upon wherever he is known. He is the very soul of affability and urbanity, and never meets a man who is not a friend at parting.

As a public man Capt. Hill has been before the public long enough for his record to speak for itself, which it does in terms that can work no disgrace to him. Having been a practicing lawyer in Hartford for many years, his ability in that line and as a public speaker is well known wherever himself has been heard of. To show his strength and popularity in the three counties of Ohio, Butler and Muhlenberg, we cite the fact that he was given the Democratic nomination for State Senator in 1877, and carried the vote of the three counties by a majority of six hundred, and that against the combined Republican, Greenback and Independent Democratic vote which was cast for Phelps, who was the Independent Democratic candidate. When, however, the character and habits of the accused are considered; when it is observed that he is idle, vicious and dissipated; that he has spent his life in evil courses, it will be often found that the supposed irrational acts are the natural outcroppings of his character. I protest against the success of the flimsy pleas.

It is not fair that men of sense and character, who in an evil moment commit crime, should be dealt with more vigorously than the worthless, drunken vagabond, whose crime is the logical sequence of his course of life, because the latter's mind is unsound.

There was a period in a ruder age when no degree of mental unsoundness excused crime. Happily that time has passed, but it now seems that we are rushing to the other extreme when the slightest degree of mental unsoundness excuses impunity. This tendency, coupled with a disposition to accept that loose principle, announced by some writers on mental philosophy that every act not dictated by right reason is some evidence of mental unsoundness, bids fair to wreck the penal code. Mental unsoundness and criminal irresponsibility are not convertible terms. The man who knows right from wrong in relation to the particular act he is committing, and has sufficient self-control to refrain, is criminally responsible, although his views of religion, or politics, or other subjects, may be the sum of all folly. Although a man believe himself in league with Deity, yet if he takes his neighbor's horse by stealth, knowing the nature of his wrongful act he is criminally responsible.

"The second cause contributing to the success of criminals in escaping on the plea of insanity, is attributable to a growing disposition to shirk the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. The cases are not exceptional where an accused person is proven guilty of crime, and the jury realize the fact, yet they set about searching some excuse for not rendering the verdict their oaths require. Some meager facts, aided by vigorous counsel and sympathy for the accused, enable them to avoid doing their duty. Juries too often accept the slightest color of excuse for acquitting a criminal. The boundaries between weak juries and corrupt ones are of no practical importance; for the evil to which they have been led by their conduct.

In the first place let me say that your readers might, perhaps, know this place better by the name of Elm Lick.

Business is brisk in and around this place because of the Standard Stave Factory which has been located at this place and has many operatives who receive good wages. The people who have timber to sell are busily engaged in filling their contracts with the company in supplying it with timber.

Messrs. George Thomson and George Spurrier have bought a new portable saw mill and will erect it near this place where they have a large contract.

Editor Herald:

The mines have resumed work again; and everything in consequence wears a more business like appearance.

Mr. SAMUEL W. ROLL, who has long been identified with this vicinity, will move soon to Spotsylvania, this State, where he has purchased property and contemplates making his future home. While we regret the loss of so good a citizen from our midst, we wish him all the success that a man of his energy so richly deserves.

Mr. WM. HAMILTON, Sr., and his son Charles left recently for Indiana, where Mr. Hamilton proposes to make his future home.

The absence of both is regretted by all, and that of Mr. Charles by the young ladies in particular.

Mrs. DUNCAN, of McHenry, this county, has been for some time in failing health, and her many friends will, doubtless, be glad to hear of her convalescence.

Mr. JAMES STEVENS, another one of our best citizens, has accepted the boss-ship of a coal mine near Owensesboro Junction, to which place he and his family moved last Saturday.

Dr. W. J. JACKSON and lady, nee Miss SHAW, are for the present boarding with the family of Mr. O'BRYAN.

The Dr. is building up quite a reputation, and if you want to convince yourself of his energy and perseverance just get him to pull a tooth for you.

Mrs. SALLIE JACKSON, of Jeffersonville, has been for some time in failing health, and her many friends will, doubtless, be glad to hear of her convalescence.

Mr. JAMES STEVENS, another one of our best citizens, has accepted the boss-ship of a coal mine near Owensesboro Junction, to which place he and his family moved last Saturday.

confidence and favor, and perhaps we may state that there is no surer testimonial than this, that his worth in every respect is understood and appreciated in that most trying of places, at home.

To conclude, taking into consideration his general worth and ability and his fidelity to Democratic principles, we are satisfied that should he meet with the good fortune (like good fortune to himself and the people) to secure the nomination in the District Convention, he will lead the party, as the Owensboro correspondent says, to a "glorious victory," and will make a Representative of whom his constituents may well be proud.

"In the course of your investigations it is not required of you that you should receive testimony for the defense. It is provided, however, that if you have cause to believe that other evidence in your reach will explain apparent guilt, it is your duty to cause such evidence to be brought before you. It will rarely happen that such evidence will tend to show the defendants criminal irresponsibility for crime. The defendant usually reserves for the trial jury the disclosure of his mental unsoundness.

"Since I have alluded to the plea of insanity in criminal cases, I will venture some views on the subject, although not specially pertinent to your duties. Just now the press and public see proper to deal our invectives against courts because of the frequent success of this plea. No better man lives in the district, and his ability is remarked upon wherever he is known.

"Should he ever conclude to make the race for Congress he would have a strong following.

Josh Billings' Sayings.

I have never known a second wife but what was boss of the situation.

After a man gets to be thirty-eight years old he kant form any new habits much; the best he can do is to steer old ones.

Any man who can swap horses, or catch fish, and not lie about it, iz az plus az men ever get to be in this world.

The sassiest man I ever met iz a hen-pecked husband whie he is away from home.

The dog that will follow anybody ain't worth a cuss.

Those people who are trying to get to Heaven on their knees will find out at last that they didn't have a thurr ticket.

Too long courtships are not always judicious. The parts often tire out skoreing 'fore the trur begins.

One quart of cheap whiskey (the cheaper the better), judiciously applied, will do more business for the devil than the smartest Deacon has got.

I don't rekolect doing anything that I was just a little ashamed of but what somebody remembered it, and sure, once in a while was to put me in mind of it.

Young men, learn to wait; if you undertake to set a hen before she is ready you will tire your time and confuse them besides.

Nature seldom makes a phool; she simply furnishes the raw material and lets the fellow finish the job to suit him-self.

Humbugging Again.

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teasted me so urgently to get her some I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months use of the Bitters my wife was cured and has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.

Mark Twain's New Hotel.

The following "items" in relation to Mr. Twain's new investment are published:

RULES AND REGULATIONS OF MY "HASHERY."

1. This house will be strictly temperate and no questions asked.

2. None but the brave deserve a bill of fare.

3. Persons owing bills for board will be forced to pay.

4. Boarders who do not wish to pay in advance are requested to advance and pay.

5. Boarders are respectfully requested to wait until the cook cooks the meals.

6. Sheets will be neatly changed once in every six months, or more if necessary.

7. All regular boarders are earnestly requested to pull off all their boards regularly, if they can conveniently do so, before retiring for the night.

8. Beds, with or without bugs or fleas, if preferred.

9. All money or other valuable items are to be left in the care of the proprietor, without cost. This we insist upon, as we will be held responsible for no losses on any account.

10. Inside and outside matter will never be furnished newspaper men, under any consideration—excepting reporters—who will always be kept out.

11. Single men, with their families, will never be "taken in."

12. Nightmares—single fare $1.00 an hour.

13. Stone vaults for snoring boarders.

14. Children without families preferred.

Don't Get the Chills.

If you are subject toague you must be sure to keep your liver, bowels and kidneys in good, free condition. When so, you will be safe from all attacks. The remedy to use is Kidney-Wort. It is the best preventive of all malarial diseases that you can take. See advertisement in another column.

Don't Use Big Words.

In promulgating your esoteric cogitations, or articulating superficial sentimentalities and philosophical or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversation possess a clarified conciseness, compact comprehensibility, coherent consistency, and a concatenated cogency. Eschew all conglomérations of flatulent garrulity, jejune babblement and asinine affectations. Let your extemporaneous descants and unpremeditated expositions have intelligibility and veracious vivacity, without rhodomontade or thrasonical bombast. Sedulously avoid all polysyllabic profundity, pompous prolixity, pettaceous vacuity, ventriloquial verbiage and vaniloquent vapidity. Shun double entendres, pernicious jocosity and pestiferous profanity, obscure or apparent. In other words talk plainly, naturally, sensibly, truthfully, purely.—Watts.

A Straight Man.

It used to be the fashion with lecturers to have the Mayor of the town or some other prominent citizen introduce them to the audience as a sort off, and upon one occasion in the years gone by when the temperance lecturer struck a certain town in Michigan not over fifty miles from Detroit, the Mayor stood up before the audience and began:

"Ladies and—and—ladies— and—and—"

"Gentlemen," whispered the lecturer.

"Yes, of course—ladies and gentlemen, I have the honor to—to—I have the honor to—to—"

"Introduce," again whispered the lecturer.

"That's the checker—I have the honor to introduce you to the notorious—em, the honorable—the honorable Mr. —Mr. —"

Here occurred another painful pause, during which the mayor walked over and asked the lecturer his name.

"Sinkins," was the reply.

"I have the honor to introduce," he repeated, as he walked back, "the honorable Mr. —Mr.—hang it, I never could remember a name two minutes! It's of no account, however. He and I have been playing poker all the afternoon and I give you my word that he is as straight as a ten foot pole. Git up Judge, and shoot off your lecture."

Stopping His Paper.

Nowadays when a subscriber gets so mad because the editor differs with him on some trivial question that he discontinues his subscription and "stops his paper," we remind him of a good anecdote of the late Horace Greeley, the well-known editor of the New York Tribune. Passing down Newspaper Row, New York City, one morning he met one of his readers who exclaimed:

"Mr. Greeley, after the article you published this morning, I intend to stop your paper."

"Oh, no," said Mr. Greeley, "don't do that."

"Yes, sir, my mind is made up; I shall stop the paper."

But the angry subscriber was not to be appeased, and they separated. Late in the afternoon the two met again, when Greeley remarked:

"Mr. Thompson, I am very glad you did not carry out your threat this morning."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, you said you were going to stop my paper."

"And so I did; I went to the office and had the paper stopped."

"You are surely mistaken. I have just come from there, and the press was running and business was booming."

"Sir," said Thompson, very pomposly, "I meant I intended to stop my subscription to your paper."

"Oh! thunder!" rejoined Greeley, "I thought you were going to stop the running of my paper, and knock me out of a living. My friend, let me tell you something. One man is just one drop of water in the ocean. You didn't set the machinery of this world in motion, and you can't stop it; and when you are underneath the ground things upon the surface will wag on just the same."

The Anti Fiddle.

At a banquet held in Huron, Canada, Mr. James Dickson, a Scotch emigrant, narrated the following touching reminiscence of "Auld Scotia":

"It is now forty-eight years since I first came to this country. I was then little more than a boy, fresh from Edinburgh University, and had come with my father to bear the trials and privations of early pioneer life in the backwoods. My mother and other members of our family were in the old land, and an ocean and a wilderness lay between us.
